MAINE SOCIETY OF THE SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION.

Maine, during the Revolutionary war, furnished men on the quota of Massachusetts for which the state has not as yet had full credit. One-ninth of the soldiers of the mother state were from Maine and they numbered over ten thousand men. Maine soldiers were at Bunker Hill and the intervening battles to Yorktown, and probably as large a proportion of our population are descended from Revolutionary patriots as any state in the Union. Our soldiers honored our history, and that they might never be forgotten, the Maine Society of the Sons of the American Revolution was organized. The Society already has done a notable work. It has published the history of four of our regiments, and three towns, at least, have histories of that period in printed form, while all our recent town histories have devoted much space to the events of those times. Much valuable information has been given to the public through the daily and weekly press, whereby thousands of names have been recorded which might otherwise have been lost. The interest created has stimulated very much the study of family history, and because of the demands made upon them our public libraries have added many valuable publications relating to the Revolutionary war. Altogether the members of the Maine Society have cause for gratification because of the work accomplished during the eleven years of its existence. There is still much left undone. We have in preparation a register of the location of the graves of the patriots of the Revolution who were buried in our state, also of the inscriptions on the monuments of Revolutionary soldiers, and assistance is desired that this register may be made as complete as possible.

Such chapter may enact a Constitution and By-Laws not inconsistent with those of the National Society, or of this Society.

SEC. 16.— No person shall be admitted to such chapter unless he is a member in good standing of the Maine Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, and all members of this Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, resident within the territory of such chapter, shall be eligible to membership therein. SONS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION

ARTICLE III.

MEMBERSHIP.

SECTION 1.— Any man shall be eligible to membership in this Society who, being of the age of twenty-one years or over, and a citizen of good repute in the community, is the lineal descendant of an ancestor who was at all times unfailing in his loyalty to, and rendered actual service in, the cause of American Independence, either as an officer, soldier, seaman, marine, militiaman or minute man, in the armed forces of the Continental Congress or of any one of the several Colonies or States; or as a signer of the Declaration of Independence; or as a member of a Committee of Safety or Correspondence; or as a member of any Continental, Provincial or Colonial Congress or Legislature; or as a civil officer, either of one of the Colonies or States or of the National Government; or as a recognized patriot who performed actual service by overt acts of resistance to the authority of Great Britain.

The applicant shall make oath that the statements of his application are true, to the best of his knowledge and belief. Upon the approval of an application by the State Society, to which it is made, one copy shall be transmitted to the Registrar-General of the National Society, who shall examine further the eligibility of the applicant. If satisfied that the member is not eligible, he shall return the application for correction.

SEC. 3.— Each State Society shall judge of the qualifications of its members and of those proposed for membership, subject to the provisions of this Constitution, and shall regulate all matters pertaining to its own affairs. It shall have authority to establish local chapters within its own jurisdiction and to endow the chapters with such power as it may deem proper, not inconsistent with this Constitution. It shall have authority, after due notice and impartial trial, to expel any member who, by conduct unbecoming a gentleman, shall render himself unworthy to remain a member of the Society.

Each State Society shall, however, retain full control of the admission of members by transfer.

SEC. 6.— Whenever the word "State" occurs in this Constitution, it shall be held to include within its meaning the District of Columbia and the Territories of the United States.

SEC. 7.— A Society may be formed in any foreign country by fifteen or more persons who are eligible to membership under this Constitution, which shall bear the SEC. 2.— The General Officers, together with the Presidents of the State Societies ex-officio, shall constitute the General Board of Managers of the National Society, which Board shall have authority to adopt and promulgate the By-Laws of the National Society, to prescribe the duties of the General Officers, to provide the seal, to designate and make regulations for the issue of the insignia, and to transact the general business of the National Society during the intervals between the sessions of the Congress. Meetings of the General Board may be held, after not less than ten days' notice, at the call of the President-General, or, in case of his absence or inability, at the call of the Senior Vice-President-General, certified by the Secretary-General. Meetings shall be called at the request of seven members. At such meetings seven shall constitute a quorum.

All such dues shall be paid on or before the first day of April in each year for the ensuing year, in order to secure representation in the Congress of the National Society.

ARTICLE VII.

SEC. 2.— Special meetings of the Congress may be called by the President-General, and shall be called by him when directed so to do by the Board of Managers, or whenever requested in writing so to do by at least five State

(2) The President and Senior Vice-President of each State Society.

(3) One delegate at large from each State Society.

(4) One delegate for every fifty members of the Society within a State and for a fraction of twenty-five or over.

ARTICLE VIII.
